What assurance can one have, as geographical remoteness is no security against infringement. It is clear that we must make haste to utter our thought, or we shall be anticipated by some one else, after which all effort on our part will be unseasonable and superfluous. It is not safe to defer one's brightest and best inspirationa. I speak from unhappy experience. How often has it happened that, while I put off harvesting and garnering, waiting for an idea to ripen more fully, there came a brownie in the night time who reaped and carried off the harvest! For instance, if I ever hoarded up a choice theme for a poem, confident of my sole proprietorship in a fancy so delicate and elusive, what was my amazement (and chagrin) to see, in the pages of some periodical, my fantastic property spirited away by a more prompt and happy genius! Again, if I chanced upon what seemed to me the elements of a line essay, and did not at once take the work in hand, but waited for the crude material to crystallize how was I hand, but waited for the crude material to crystallize, how was I punished! Nemesis quietly handed me a marked newspaper, or a Is agent for the Empire MOWERS and REAPERS. me a marked newspaper, or a book with the leaf turned down, in one of which I beheld my essay, with all its telling illustrations, its brilliant tropes, irrefutable reasons, its pertinent quotations—all, to the last grain of Attic salt which seasoned the whole mass! My essay, but another had written it; another's impertinent name was subjoined.
